As a result, the price of the Ordinary Shares could be highly volatile and can go up or down. Past performance should not be seen as an indication of future performance.

The value of investments can go down as well as up and investors may not get back the amount originally invested.

Fund News

Quarterly Reporting Season:

Nvidia reported year on year revenue growth of 94 per cent. Guidance for the upcoming quarter missed the highest of buy-side expectations, however the company signalled a healthy start to production for the Blackwell platform ("we will deliver in this quarter more Blackwells than we had previously estimated") and strong GPU demand (Blackwell "demand to outpace supply into 2026").

Other top 20 holdings reported quarterly revenue growth rates as follows: Arista Networks 20 per cent, Applied Materials 5 per cent, Dell 10 per cent and Motorola Solutions 9 per cent.

During the month, we reduced exposure to Oracle, largely on valuation grounds (we do not believe Neo Clouds should trade on multiples higher than the Hyperscalers).

Market Update

So far, 2024 has been a great year for us culminating in winning Citywire's Best Global Equities Trust. As we keep saying, 2025 needs to see the effectiveness of enterprise agentic AI proven. Should this occur there is no logical reason that the AI Boom will not continue. Failure to prove functionality would result in some severe portfolio pain. We will keep you posted through our Newsletters of progress or otherwise.

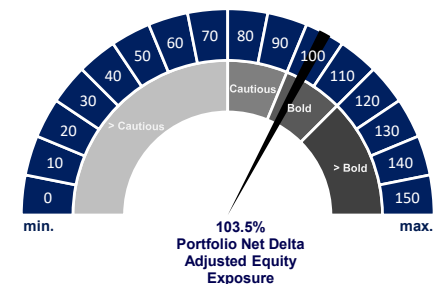

In the meantime, we note some of the quantum computing names are starting to run too. Possibly too early? Longer term followers will know we believe that the Era of Quantum Computing will follow the Era of AI.
